GETTING BACK ON TRACK

"While it is better not to have bad days, or bad weeks/months, the truth is we all have them. The trick to success is in recovering from those tough times. How do you pick yourself up, learn from your mistakes and be a little better next time?"

Treasurer Briner.

TAKEAWAY

- The main idea is that getting back on track starts with awareness and action.
- But ignoring debt does not make it disappear.
- The first step is figuring out the cause of the debt.
- Good financial habits usually do not happen by accident.
